

I urge the FCC to reject NAB petition 04-160. This is a totally un-American power grab. Why should competitor companies be empowered by the federal government to choke off a business rival? I frequently drive across the United States, from one coast to another, trips on which the satellite car radio is a wonderful convenience. Being able to get weather and local traffic reports is a great aid in avoiding tornadoes, storms, traffic jams, etc. This is what radio was meant to do for the consumer. Please let the marketplace decide what works.
